Jap Crown Prince To Be Entertained In England

LONDON, May 9.—Crown Prince Hirohito, of Japan, today began a three weeks' visit in England under most auspicious circumstances. He landed in Portsmouth harbor, this morning from the battleship Katori, being escorted to the shore by the Prince of Wales, British warships in the harbor thundering the royal salute when he left the deck of the battleship.

The prince proceeded to Buckingham palace, where he will be the guest of King George and Queen Mary for several days. Announcement has been made that the crown prince has been made an honorary general of the British army.

During the next week the royal visit will visit points of historical interest in London and southern England and on May 19 will go to Edinburgh. He will return here late in the month, and will probably leave for France about June 1.

Compulsory Labor Law Is In Effect In Bulgaria

LONDON, May 9.—All classes of society in Bulgaria have been called upon to fulfill their civic duties under the provisions of the compulsory labor law, which was adopted a year ago. The law provided that men who had attained the age of 20 years, and girls who were 16 years old, were to be called upon for a certain amount of compulsory labor for the state. Men were to work 12 months and women six months, and none was allowed to emigrate until duties imposed had been performed.

The number of persons coming within the scope of the law was 700,000, of whom 600,000 have been at work, the other 100,000 comprising road making, sanitary service, digging of canals, street paving and the building of schools and reading rooms.

U. S. Has Placed Itself Irrevocably Alongside Its War Associates

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1921, by Times Pub. Co.)
WASHINGTON, May 9.—The United States government has placed itself irrevocably alongside its associates in the war by the decision to participate in all councils on questions growing out of the European conflict.

Any hope that America would act the part of a neutral go-between the allies and Germany has been swept away.

When a new treaty is negotiated either with the Versailles pact as a basis or pattern, the Germans will get small comfort out of it. Irrespective of the league of nations controversy the Harding administration is carrying forward the policy of the preceding administration in endeavoring to cooperate with Europe for the benefit of the world.

Outlining U. S. Foreign Policy.

The foregoing points are emphasized today as the national capital realizes that gradually President Harding and Secretary Hughes are defining American foreign policy along lines that are not altogether inconsistent with that of the preceding regime in Washington.

The passage of the Knox resolution by the Senate, hailed as a victory for the "irreconcilables" was short lived. That resolution which has not yet passed the House does not mean a separation of the United States from the allies. All such thoughts have been dissipated by the action of the government here in accepting the allied invitation for a resumption of the

Pickpockets Complain Of Dishonesty

GENOA, May 9.—The chief of police of this city has received a letter signed "The Tramways' Pickpockets' Association," complaining that the persons from whom they abstract pocket-books, have "the dishonest habit" of invariably declaring to the police a much larger financial loss than they have really suffered.

They cite specific cases where one man, claiming to have been robbed of two thousand five hundred lire, only lost fifty, and another one reporting a loss of eighteen hundred lire when his pocket book contained less than two hundred.

The letter argues that such exaggerations are likely to cause unfortunate consequences and strained relations among the pickpocket fraternity, as when a member of the association turns in a few hundred lire when the loser claims to have lost thousands, the pickpocket is suspected by his colleagues of having retained the difference. "Alleged honest people should be more delicate," the letter ends.

Germany Plans The Control Of Zinc Metal

ST. LOUIS, MO., May 9.—Germany is taking active measures to once more gain ascendancy in the non-ferrous metal market of the world, and is only delaying her plans until the reparations question is settled, according to Stephen S. Tutbill, of New York, secretary of the American Zinc Institute, who addressed a convention of the organization here today.

Mr. Tutbill uttered a warning to American producers that their trade is threatened.

He asserted that at present Germany and Belgium are conducting negotiations for a re-establishment of their former trade relations in the metal market.

"The American Zinc Institute," the secretary said, "through private channels and confirmation in Washington, has obtained proof that Germany plans to re-establish her once famous Kartou (European convention) syndicate control, better known as the metalgesellschaft, with headquarters at Hamburg and Liege and with offices in the principal cities of the world."

"The object will be to again obtain dominance over the non-ferrous metal trade, particularly zinc."

Striking Carmen Vote On Question Of Arbitration

AKRON, O., May 9.—Striking interurban street car men on the northern division of the Northern Ohio Traction and Light Company voted last night on whether to return to work and arbitrate their wage differences. Meetings of the strikes in Akron and Canton were adjourned until this afternoon, when they will vote on a similar proposition.

A secret ballot was taken at the interurban men's meeting and the votes will not be counted until all other strikers have balloted. Sentiment among the interurban men is said to favor arbitration.

No cars will be operated on any part of the 130 miles of the Northern Ohio Traction lines, which have been tied up for four days as the result of the walk-out of the platform men.

Wholesale Executions Are Reported

STOCKHOLM, May 9.—Reports of wholesale executions by the Bolsheviks of participants in the Kronstadt uprising are confirmed in a private message from Helsinki to the Tshing-tai today. These met with immediate denial, however, from the Bolshevik agency here.

The message asserted that several thousand of the Kronstadt rebels, among them hundreds of women and children, had been executed, but the soviet agency says that only thirteen persons leaders of the revolt, were shot.

McGANNON IS SUFFERING A NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

CLEVELAND, O., May 9.—The state was prepared today to proceed with the trial of Mrs. Della McJannet, indicted on a charge of subornation of perjury, including testimony given at the trials of William H. McGannon, former chief justice of the municipal court, for the murder of Harold C. Kacy.

Mrs. McJannet, it is alleged, procured Joseph Johnson to testify in behalf of the defense during the McGannon murder trials. Johnson, who is in the county jail awaiting sentence, following his plea of guilty to a perjury indictment, will be the principal witness against the woman.

The trial of McGannon, charged with perjury in the testimony offered at the Kacy trials, was scheduled to begin today. According to the doctor at the head of a rest sanitarium, the former judge will not be able to appear for trial for several weeks, as he is suffering from nervous prostration in the sanitarium.

It was announced if McGannon did not appear for trial today, a medical board of three physicians would be appointed by the court to report on his condition.

A $5,000 bail bond, signed for the release of McGannon after his indictment for perjury was ordered forfeited by Judge Florence E. Allen, when he failed to appear for trial today.

William E. Green, McGannon's bondsman, appeared in court with certificates from two physicians, declaring McGannon too ill to stand trial.

Dr. Moretz Lowenthal, proprietor of a sanitarium where McGannon has been confined for the past ten days, declared he was treating the former jurist for a complete nervous breakdown.

Judge Allen appointed two physicians to investigate McGannon's physical condition for the state and report to the court this afternoon. If McGannon's condition is found to be as serious as his physicians report it is said that bond forfeiture will be set aside.

NEW YORK.—Nation-wide appeal for international conference on reduction of armament issued by four of the largest religious organizations of the country.

Germany Fails to Form New Cabinet

BERLIN, May 9.—Sentiment in German political circles was showing a drift at noon today in favor of agreeing to the allied reparation terms. It is now believed a parliamentary coalition which will accept the allied ultimatum will be constituted within the next 24 hours.

BERLIN, May 9.—National committees of the Majority Socialist and Democratic parties assembled here today to discuss the attitude those organizations would take relative to the international situation resulting from the presentation of the allied ultimatum regarding reparations. There was hope in some quarters that an agreement would be reached by the two parties to participate in the formation of a cabinet to succeed that of Konstantin Fehrenbach, which resigned last week.

Dr. Wilhelm Mayer, German ambassador to France, has declined the invitation of President Ebert to form a ministry, and the German People's party continues its attitude of reserve. The leader of the latter organization, Dr. Gustav Stresemann, is strongly opposed to acceptance of the allied terms. Dr. Mayer has been conferring with members of the reichstag, attempting to show that the signing of the allied demands is necessary.

U. S. REPRESENTATIVE ATTENDS COUNCIL OF AMBASSADORS

PARIS, May 9.—(By the Associated Press)—American representation at allied conferences was resumed today when Hugh C. Wallace, the ambassador, took his seat at the session of the council of ambassadors here.

Mr. Wallace received his instructions last night from Secretary of State Hughes to represent the United States government at the ambassadorial conference.

The American ambassador's appearance at the foreign office, where the council happened to be meeting this morning, was the occasion for warm expressions of appreciation on the part of Jules Cambon, of France, president of the council, and the other members of that body.

Ambassador Wallace was given a seat at M. Cambon's right.

The problem of Upper Silesia was the subject of the deliberations of the council this forenoon.

Roland W. Boyden, who formerly sat with the allied reparations commission at its sessions, has received his instructions from his state department to resume his seat with that body.

Greek Princess In France For Operation

PARIS, May 9.—Princess Anastasia of Greece, accompanied by her husband, Christopher, has arrived here. Members of the party included the princess' son, William B. Lewis, Jr., his fiancée, Princess Xenia, her sister, Princess Marie, and mother, Grand Duchess Mary.

The princess came to this city for an operation made necessary by her severe illness of last winter, conditions being found during an operation in Athens which were left for subsequent attention.

The operation will be performed at the American Hospital, probably within a few days.

Yard Masters Want Eight Hour Day

ST. LOUIS, MO., May 9.—Working conditions on railroads throughout the country were under discussion today at the opening session of the third annual convention of the Railroad Yard Masters of America.

The convention will continue through Saturday with the probability of all business sessions being executive, according to delegates, who expect the question of wage revision and hours of service to occupy the principal attention.

It was indicated the organization would consider plans for obtaining a uniform 8 hour working day for yard masters. At present, it was explained, the scale ranges from 8 to 13 hours on various lines. J. L. Cane, of Columbus, Ohio, is grand president of the organization.

MUSICIANS IN CONVENTION

Holbrook and Joseph H. Barrett, president of the St. Paul chapter of the federation, and a parade. The convention will close Friday.

WAR BUREAU DID NOT TRY TO PASS THE BUCK

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 9.—Edward S. Bailey, law partner of Samuel T. Ansell, counsel for Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, Philadelphia draft evader, told the house investigating committee today that the war department made no attempt "to wash its hands of the case and pass the buck to Ansell," when advised that Bergdoll had escaped. Corroborating the testimony of his partner, Mr. Bailey said Secretary Baker refused to see the lawyers, but sent word to Ansell that the department expected him to see that Bergdoll was returned to prison in accordance with promises made when he was released under guard to recover a lot of gold.

Mr. Bailey reiterated that Former Judge John W. Westcott, of New Jersey, was associate counsel in the Bergdoll case, following the judge's denial that his name had been mentioned in letters to Major General Harris, adjutant general, and that it was again mentioned in a statement given to the press by Ansell and Bailey a few days after the prisoner had escaped.

Referring to Judge Westcott's testimony that he knew nothing about the plot of gold story prior to the escape, John H. Sturberne, counsel for the committee, asked:

"Was the gold mentioned at the conference, with Judge Westcott at which plans were discussed for the release to Ansell?"

"Why, absolutely," Mr. Bailey replied. "There was no question about it. Judge Westcott was there all the time we were talking about it."

Plan Joint Quarters For Womens Societies

NEW YORK, May 9.—The woman's national civic foundation project to provide in Washington joint headquarters for all national women's organizations was the subject of discussion at a meeting called today by Mrs. C. C. Calhoun, of Washington, the foundation president.

Miss Alice Carpenter, the foundation's secretary, said a ten acre estate at the head of Connecticut avenue in Washington has been acquired, where it is proposed to construct a group of artistic buildings, and club houses, one residence for each organization. The grounds are to be beautiful and among other features a large theater is to be erected.

Representatives of the National League for Women Voters, the National Association of Sculptors and Painters, the National Y. W. C. A., the National Health Nursery and the women's department of the National Civic Federation and other organizations were invited to attend.

PARIS, May 9.—A Berlin dispatch to the Matin says that the French ambassador in that city has informed the German foreign office that all incursions of German government troops into Upper Silesia would be considered by France as a violation of the Versailles treaty.

Advices from Southern state that an offensive against Poles, who have virtually taken over most of Upper Silesia, is being planned by German civilian guards, which are being concentrated along the Oder river.

The interallied commission at Oppeln is reported to have issued an appeal to the people of that city, exhorting them to be calm, and declaring that Oppeln will be defended against all attacks.

Dynamite Caps Explode; One Boy Is Killed; Six Injured

Explosion Occurred On River Bank Near Carlyle Place; Carl Newman, 15, Is Victim

THE KILLED
Carl Newman, aged 15, Carlyle Place, right leg blown off below the hip. Multiple bruises and burns about the body. Left arm fractured in three places.

THE INJURED
Thorold M. Carmichael, aged 13, Carlyle Place, right leg blown off below the hip. Multiple bruises and burns about the body. Left arm fractured. May die.

Arthur Caldwell, aged 19, Carlyle Place, injuries on left side and bruises all over his body. Will recover.

David Bowman, aged 14, Carlyle Place, bruises about hands and arms.

Doc Mowrey, aged 17, Carlyle Place, bruises about back and arms.

Willie Caldwell, aged 14, Carlyle Place, bruises on face and hands.

Raymond Bowman, aged 15, Carlyle Place, bruises on body and burns on right side of face.

One boy, Carl Newman, aged 15, was literally blown to pieces and six other companions were injured. Thorold Carmichael, aged 13, seriously, when dynamite caps in the pocket of Newman exploded with terrific force Sunday morning at 10:30, on the Ohio river bank near Carlyle Place, just east of New Boston.

The Newman boy's right leg and part of his abdomen were blown away and he only lived ten minutes after being covered to Hempstead hospital. Just before he died he was asked how the explosion occurred. "Don't bother me. My leg hurts me too bad. I know I am going to die, but don't tell mother," the injured youth replied and three minutes later his injuries proved fatal.

Thorold Carmichael was seriously injured, as his right leg was blown away just below the hip. He also suffered multiple bruises about the body and his condition is serious as he suffered greatly from loss of blood. When his father, Theo. Carmichael, reached him, his leg was hanging by a thread. The boy begged to be removed home, but was conveyed to Hempstead hospital, where his leg was amputated just below the hip by Drs. Walter and Carl Braunlin, J. W. Daehler and W. A. Quinn. He rallied Sunday afternoon and his physicians say he has a chance to recover.

Days Were Seated On Log
According to David Bowman, the boys were seated on a log on the river bank just opposite Carlyle Place when Carl Newman pulled out a cigarette and lit it. Lawrence and Ralph Carmichael, who were with the boys who were injured, were sitting on the grass in front of them. As Newman started to flip his cigarette stub away, in some manner it lodged in his trousers pocket which contained the dynamite caps. Instantly there was an explosion and the boys were all blown off the log. Newman and Thorold Carmichael sat alongside of each other and both were seriously injured. The Newman boy dying shortly after reaching the hospital.

The cries of the boys attracted a large crowd and when neighbors reached the scene a pathetic sight met their eyes. The Newman boy was lying on one side of the log with his right leg blown away and the Carmichael boy was found on the other side with his right leg blown away.

There is Strength in Every Tablet

One dose often helps commence to enrich your blood and revitalize your worn-out exhausted nerves.

Nuxated Iron is organic iron, like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach. It is so prepared that it will not injure the teeth or disturb the stomach. It is ready for almost immediate absorption and assimilation by the blood and while some physicians claim metallic iron which people usually take is not absorbed at all. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day, after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if you do not obtain perfectly satisfactory results. At all drugstores.

The agonizing screams of the youthful victims could be heard for some distance and neighbors from all parts of that section flocked to the scene.

A hurry call was sent for local physicians and after two had arrived at Carlyle Place the Newman and Carmichael boys and Arthur Caldwell were placed in ambulances and rushed to Hempstead hospital. After the Newman boy passed away there, 10 feet of fuse was found in his pocket.

Not Known Where Caps Came From
Just how the latter got hold of the dangerous dynamite caps may never be known, but it is believed he found them in a box on the hillside, where the Carlyle-Labold company operates its shale bank. None of the injured boys claim they knew that Newman had any caps. They claim he did not say anything about having them or did not exhibit them to his companions.

When asked at the hospital, where he got the caps, the Newman boy said he found them near the shale bank on the hillside, just above his home. Dynamite caps are used there to set off blasts in the shale bank, but they are always locked up and closely guarded. It is believed the Newman boy found the caps early yesterday morning as his companions say he did not have them Saturday.

Newman Newman, father of the dead boy, told a Times man last night that he would make a thorough investigation as to how his son came into possession of the caps. "I did not know he had them and do not see where he could have gotten them," Mr. Newman said last night. "When I reached my son his leg was hanging by a thread. The explosion was so great that I believe he must have had a small quantity of dynamite in his pocket."

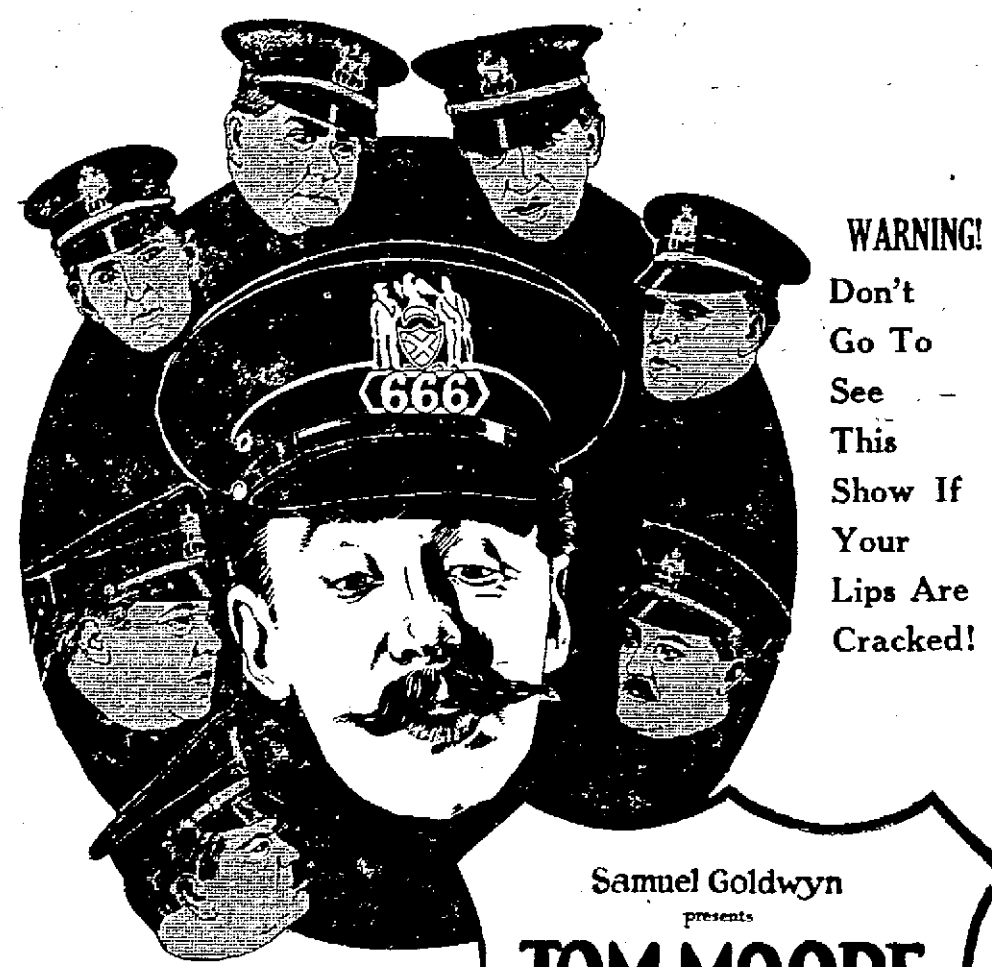

Newman is employed as a brick burner at the Carlyle-Labold plant and lives just west of it.

When a Times man talked to Arthur Caldwell at the hospital and Raymond and David Bowman near their homes in Carlyle Place last night, they stoutly denied knowing that the Newman boy had any dynamite caps. They claim they saw Newman flip his cigarette away and as he did so it lodged in his pocket, which was a large and roomy one and an explosion followed immediately.

Enjoys Big Swing
There is a big swing near the spot where the explosion occurred and that is the reason for so many boys being there yesterday morning. They take their turn swinging in it while their cows, which they are supposed to look after, graze on the bank near them.

"I knew something was going to happen to Thorold when he left home, and I told him to stay with his mother," Mr. Carmichael said Sunday.

HE hundred-mile-an-hour grind means constant hazard to the automobile racer. Yet, when you are constipated, you face dangers equally as great.

Constipation daily reaps its toll in ill health. With lightning rapidity, it spreads its poison through the body. It undermines resistance—lays open your health to sickness of every kind.

That is why physicians emphasize the need for prompt relief. The poisonous waste must be removed at once. Old-fashioned, overnight cathartics are too slow—too uncertain. For quick results, millions today use a water-laxative—a laxative which flushes the system completely.

Ask your druggist for Pluto Water. Try it today. Note its prompt, pleasant action—its certain, complete results. Pluto, with its harmless minerals, flushes away all impurities. You feel like a new person!

Pluto Water is beneficial in treatment of kidney, liver and stomach troubles, rheumatism and nervous disorders.

One Entire Week Starting Today

NOTICE! Judging from the great interest taken in this picture and the immense crowds who are now thronging the best theatres throughout this country to see it, I am of the opinion that it will take at least one full week to enable the people of Portsmouth to see this wonderfully human picture with Chaplin and "The Kid," Jackie Coogan.

Signed — Fred N. Tynes, Manager

Charles Chaplin

—has taken a partner in the fun business. It's Jackie Coogan, the Kid. They're the greatest combination of mirth-makers who ever got together; and the laughs that Charlie maybe overlooks come fresh and snappy from the kid. And would you believe us if we told you that here and there, through the six great reels of the biggest comedy the world has ever seen, there's a sob? It's a fact—and that's what makes the laughter bigger still.

themselves in communion as the "strong medicine, remedy and antidote for human weakness." "Unless you eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink of His blood you cannot have life in you." "Frequent Communion is the Savior's remedy."

The pastor took occasion to fervently congratulate the first communicants, their dear parents, devoted teacher, their many relations and friends who so kindly received Holy Communion with the little children.

At the Vesper service, the children were enrolled in the staphur, and renewed their baptismal vows. The pastor, having blessed their robes and prayer books, presented each first communicant with a large, luminous Communion picture as a perpetual reminder of the happy occasion.

The speaker described briefly, but in vivid fashion, the incidents connected with his connection into the life of the orient, at Beirut. Striking illustrations were given of the non-progressive spirit of the land, especially expressed in a persistent suspicion of the West.

In the cities and in the rural districts the Red Cross is going about, urging "Keep Well." Courses in home nursing and first aid vastly increase the potency of the Red Cross organization. Because of ignorance, the threat of life and death is so great in the Red Cross interested in the rural districts? Because more than half of our population live in the country. Our economic system has its backbone out where the material resources are and yet we have the poorest social conditions in the rural districts. The problems of the rural districts are the problems of the country. Outside of the district is not in the country."

Mr. Ague paid particular attention to the useless duplication of churches throughout the state, and to the "one-room school" whose system had not changed in years.

"If we were careless," he said, "about the piety in the rural communities as we are of our children, we would soon run out of it here."

THE CHIEF EFFECT OF A WAR TAX ON SPORTING GOODS

Why It Is Called "The Greatest Body Builder"

The reason that Father John's Medicine has been called the greatest body builder is because its pure food elements are so prepared that those who are weak and run down, under weight and in poor health, are able to take up the nourishment which it contains and really make use of it in rebuilding flesh and strength.

The system follows nature's own method in thus establishing normal flesh and strength. Father John's Medicine is not a stimulant and is guaranteed free from alcohol or dangerous drugs.

On the grounds of neglect and infidelity, Charles Mefford, 12 Stinton street, was divorced from Ella Mefford by Judge Thomas in Common Pleas court Monday.

They were married August 6, 1912, and the plaintiff told the court that she neglected him and their home for the association of one Cleve Willie and he declared that finally in December 1918 she abandoned him and left with the other man for parts unknown. Attorney George W. Sheppard represented the plaintiff.

A petition was filed in Common Pleas court Monday by The Land Office company seeking to collect a balance of $10,000 claimed to be due on a promissory note and to foreclose a mortgage on the real estate of the plaintiffs situated at 618 Ninth street. The Royal Savings and Loan company, C. W. G. Hannah and The First National Bank are made party defendants to the suit and the court is asked to require them to set up their interests if any, in the premises. The plaintiff sued through Attorneys Miller and Searl.

Evidence in the divorce suit of Florence Hall of High street, against James Hall, formerly of this city but now living in West Virginia, was heard Monday by Judge Thomas in Common Pleas court and the hearing was then continued for further investigation. They were married Dec. 20, 1905, and the plaintiff alleged infidelity. Testifying in support of her charge, Mrs. Hall declared that he neglected her for the association of female friends and she stated that he constantly boasted of his conquests of other women. In addition to a divorce the wife sought to be restored to her former name of Fields. She was represented by Attorney W. L. Dickey.

A will executed on August 28, 1918, by the late Milton G. McGlothlin, well known Eleventh street grocer, who died recently at his home in this city was filed for probate Monday in the office of the probate court.

Brennan And Wife Think It Is Wonderful

"Taniae has helped my wife so much that I'm now taking it myself, and it's doing me a world of good, too," John Brennan, 102 Furnace st., Akron, Ohio, recently. "Several months ago my wife lost her appetite and got to where even the sight of food would make her sick at times. What little she ate soured and gave her such a bloated, stuffed-up feeling she could hardly get her breath, and kept her in misery for hours. Her nerves were unstrung, too, and she could hardly get any sleep. "But she says she feels like a different person since taking Taniae. She has a fine appetite, never complains of indigestion any more, and always sleeps well at night. Seeing how I was helping her, I started taking it myself. I was badly run down, nervous, and had no appetite. Well, I've taken two bottles now, and can hardly get enough to eat and am feeling better and stronger every day. My wife and I both think Taniae is simply wonderful."—Adv.

AH! EPSOM SALTS LIKE LEMONADE

You can now buy real epsom salts without the awful taste and nausea by asking your druggist for a handy package of "Epsomade Salts" which looks and acts exactly like lemonade. Because it is pure epsom salts combined with fruit derivative salts, giving it the taste of sparkling lemonade. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of cold water whenever you feel things headachy or constipated. "Epsomade Salts" is the much talked of discovery of the American Epsom Association.

America Not to Send Ambassador
Indeed, the expectation that immediately after the passage of the Knox resolution the United States would send an ambassador to Germany is also without foundation. Senator Lodge himself stated to the Senate that the Knox resolution was a law and that of some kind and is entered into with the Berlin government diplomatic relations between Germany and the United States will not be resumed.
Technically, of course, there is no legal reason why the United States cannot send an ambassador to Berlin even before a treaty is concluded and ratified. Many a precedent exists for such a procedure. But the government here realizes that the resumption of diplomatic relations with Germany carries with it more than a passing significance and conveys a moral of fact of extraordinary importance.
Until Germany for example, makes satisfactory settlement of the Rhine growing out of the sinking of the Lusitania—a subject to be fully covered in any new treaty with Berlin—it would be difficult for reasons of sentiment to send an ambassador to Berlin. That at any rate is the present feeling here.

Their Medicine Chest For 20 Years
It is characteristic of folks after they pass the allotted "three score years and ten," to look back over the days that are gone and thoughtfully live them over. I find myself, at seventy-one, frequently drifting back a quarter of a century, when I see myself in the little drug store I owned at Belmar, N. J., making and selling a vegetable compound to my friends and customers—what was then known only as Dr. Lewis' Medicine for Stomach, Liver and Bowel Complaints.
For many years while I was perfecting my formula I studied and investigated the laxatives and cathartics on the market and became convinced that their main fault was not that they did not act on the bowels, but that their action was too violent and drastic, and upset the system of the user, which was due to the fact that they were simply acting on the upper or small intestine, while others would act only on the lower or large intestine, and that their action invariably produced a habit requiring augmented doses.
I believed that a preparation to produce the best effect must first tone the liver, then act on the stomach and entire alimentary system. If this was accomplished, the medicine would produce a mild, but thorough elimination of the waste without the usual sickening reactions, and make the user feel better at once.
After experimenting with hundreds of different compounds, I at last perfected the formula that is now known as Dr. Lewis' Remedy, which I truly believe goes further and does more than any laxative on the market. The thousands of letters from users have convinced me I was right, and that the use of Dr. Lewis' Remedy as a family medicine, even though he may have used it for twenty-five years, never has to increase the dose.
My knowledge of medicine and the results of its use in my own family and among my friends, before I ever offered it for sale, caused me to have great faith in Dr. Lewis' Remedy from the very first.
And now as I find myself nearing the age when I must bow to the inevitable and go to another life, my greatest pleasure is to sit each day and read the letters that each mail brings from people as old or older than I, who tell of having used Dr. Lewis' Remedy for ten, fifteen and twenty years, and how they and their children and grandchildren have been benefited by it.
It is a comforting thought, my friends, for a man at my age to feel that aside from his own peace, one has done something for his fellow man. My greatest satisfaction, my greatest happiness today, is the knowledge that tonight more than one million people will take a Dr. Lewis' Remedy (N.B. Tablet) and will be better, happier, happier people for it. I hope you will be one of them.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, May 9.—Moderate reactions attended the resumption of business on the stock exchange today. Motor shares again were most susceptible to bearish pressure, because of unfavorable trade conditions. Rubber specialties made further concessions in response to lower prices for those products. Minor steel's as well as copper, leather and oils, opened fractionally under last week's final quotations. Investment rails showed no definite trend and railway equipments were dull. Exchange on London was firm, but leading continental rails reacted substantially from recent high levels.

On the very small accumulation of buying orders over the week-end, shorts were encouraged to extend their operations soon after the opening. Successive drives were made against the motors and their subsidiaries at losses of 2 to almost 7 points. Oil fell 1/2 to 3 and independent stocks reacted to the same extent, while equipment shippers, textiles and chemicals contributed to the decline in more moderate measure. High grade rails especially Canadian Pacific, Louisville and Nashville, Reading and Allegheny were disposed to ignore the break in industrial and specialties, but finally conceded their gains of 1 to 2 points. On the exchange call money opened at 6 1/2 percent, but outside loans at 6 percent were made.

Italy and industrials moved in opposite directions during today's stock market session. The former added to last week's advances, while the latter was subjected to renewed pressure. Steel approximately 900,000 shares. The closing was irregular.

CHICAGO, May 9.—Renewal of bullish crop reports from the southwest gave strength to the wheat market today after a weak opening. Opening quotations, which varied from unchanged figures to 2 1/4c lower, with May 1.29 1/2 to 1.40 and July 1.13 1/4 to 1.14, were followed by a moderate general setback, and then by a sharp rise well above Saturday's finish.

Corn duplicated the action of wheat. After opening 3/4c off to 3/8c advance including July at 61 1/2 to 61 3/4, the market receded a little more and then scored gains all around.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Julia Shonkewiler

Mrs. Julia Shonkewiler, beloved wife of Thomas Shonkewiler, well known East End citizen, passed to her eternal reward Monday morning at 2:55 o'clock at her late residence, 1623 Eleventh street. Mr. Shonkewiler, a devoted and unselfishly suffered the ravages of dread Bright's disease for the past two years and her death, while not unexpected, came as a severe shock to her numerous relatives and friends. She was a fine Christian woman, beloved of all who knew her, and the news of her passing will be received with deep regret by her numerous friends and acquaintances.

Mrs. Shonkewiler's maiden name was Southworth and she was a daughter of Elijah and Esther Lockwood-Southworth, pioneer residents of Pike and Scioto counties.

She was born April 6th, 1857, in Pike county, and was 64 years, 1 month and 2 days of age. She was married to Thomas Shonkewiler, on January 22nd, 1888. No children were born to this union, but a stepson, James Harvey Shonkewiler, cartoonist, a former member of The Times staff, and son of Thomas Shonkewiler, by a former marriage, found in her a true mother's heart which he has learned to appreciate more and more with the passing years.

In early life she united with the Baptist church, of which body she remained a consistent member until her death. Besides her husband and son, two brothers and a sister remain to mourn her death. They are L. F. Southworth of Howard Nebraska, 1. F. Southworth of near Stockdale, and Mrs. Jennie, wife of John Shonkewiler of Portsmouth.

The funeral will be held at the residence Wednesday at 2:00 p. m., old time, Rev. L. M. Kasper of Calvary Baptist church officiating.

Baby Carrington

A baby son born Sunday evening to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carrington of 2010 Vinton avenue died shortly after birth. Mr. and Mrs. Carrington have the sympathy of their many friends in the loss of their babe. The body was taken to Quincy, Ky., Monday afternoon for burial.

THE MOVIES

Mack Sennett
Presents
"A SMALL TOWN IDOL"
HIS 6 REEL COMEDY-DRAMA
Featuring BEN TURPIN, MARIE PROVOST, CHARLIE MURRAY, PHYLLIS HAVERJ
An Associated Producers Production

Always first with the best—The Eastland Theatre is pleased to present for one full week, starting tonight, Mack Sennett's latest and greatest Seven act comedy, "A Small Town Idol," with Ben Turpin, Charlie Murray, Marie Provost, Phyllis Haver and the entire aggregation of Sennett funsters—positively the greatest feature comedy ever offered in Portsmouth.

PROGRAM

A—Overture—"Ain't We Got Fun"—Eastland orchestra, Wm. A. Spitzer, dir.
B—Al Christie presents a Christie comedy, "His Better Half."
C—Chester presents an Eastland Chester Serenade.

"A Small Town Idol," one of the few productions Mack Sennett has made in six-reel proportions, comes to the Eastland Theatre tonight, beginning an engagement limited to one week.

With practically every member of his all-star aggregation of funny folk enrolled in a congenial part, there is assurance that "A Small Town Idol" will more than make good in the distinguished presence of its Sennett predecessors.

Ben Turpin is the village hero, Phyllis Haver is his small town idol; Marie Provost is the city girl that befriended poor Ben when the home-folks turn him down; Charlie Murray is the imbecilicable constable; Jimmy Pinchason is the wretched villain who connects all the trouble and Kalla Bush and Edgie Gibson and all the rest of the Sennett notables are to be seen advantageously in the shifting scenes that cover as many places as are usually revealed in a half-dozen "problem plays" wherein the slums and the green fields are visited.

"A Small Town Idol" is an authentic story of a village youth, wrongfully accused, making good in the city and returning to find—the villain exposed to his sweetheart and he (the hero) accused of murder. From all of which disasters the ingenuity of Mack Sennett and the skill of his players extricate Ben to the joyful clasp of wedding bells.

Conway Tearle will be seen at the Exhibit tonight and Tuesday in "Murdered Hearts," a great drama of land and sea, and the funniest part of all is Charlie Chaplin in "Work," his funniest two reel comedy.

A new star makes his stellar debut in "Murdered Hearts," the new National Picture which opens a two day engagement at the Exhibit Theatre tonight. Although Conway Tearle has long been considered an attraction by the picture screen nation, it has remained for Lewis J. Selznick to realize the public mind as to this clever actor's capabilities and to award the honors and advantages due him.

Mr. Tearle appears in a most sympathetic role, that of Paul Carrington, a young doctor, whose entire career, it appears, is to be sacrificed to satisfy a capricious woman's whims. Mr. Tearle does not make his Paul Carrington a moon-struck and over-dependent weakling, but portrays him as a strong man who has been sadly hurt and who in an effort to forget, takes the best and noblest course—namely, by plunging himself into hard work that will be of lasting benefit to humanity.

"The woman in the case" is ably depicted by Zena Keefe, and to this capable young actress must go honors almost equal to the stars. While the action of the story calls for the two to meet again on a South Sea island, this situation is developed and handled in a manner so refreshingly new as to make it most interesting.

Also Charles Chaplin in "Work."

Mayor Found Drinking Coffee When Raid Made

DOVER, O., May 9.—Russell C. Bowers, county prosecutor, today asked Mayor Walter H. Schen, of Dover, to resign because he found him in the home and soft drink restaurant of Jacob Fondreist when Sheriff Shontz and the prosecutor raided the place and found liquor Saturday night, the prosecutor said.

The prosecutor said the mayor was in a private room in the restaurant drinking coffee at the time of the raid. Two affidavits against Fondreist were filed by the prosecutor this morning charging possession of and furnishing and selling liquor to the mayor. Fondreist will appear for trial this afternoon.

If Mayor Schen has not resigned by the time the case against Fondreist is disposed of, the prosecutor will prefer charges against him with Governor Davis, Bowers, said.

RED MEN IN CONVENTION

COLUMBUS, O., May 9.—More than 1,000 delegates are in attendance at the 60th annual session of the Great Council of the Improved Order of Red Men and the Degree of Pouchoutus, which opened here today. Reception of delegates today will be followed by a social session this evening. Business sessions will be held throughout tomorrow.

Genius

Genius is the power to see facts before their importance dawns on the mass of mankind. When a man is too soon about it he is burned at the stake or starved to death. But if by chance or good guidance his mental offspring appears at the proper psychological hour he earns a niche in the undying hall of fame. If he can clothe it in an outward garb of artistic expression he is entitled to two niches. And if, in addition to this, he can throw a mantle of subtle thing called humor over his creation the whole world will bow to him, and all will acknowledge him as kin.

Mrs. Robert Blair, 421 S. 23rd Street, Terre Haute, Ind., writes: "I suffered two years with kidney trouble. I was frequently getting backache, morning I would arise feeling very tired and having headaches, and at last I was unable to do my work. I tried many pills advertised and made up my mind to try them. After taking a few boxes of Foley's Kidney Pills, the backache stopped and my kidneys were restored to healthy, normal action. I am now free of those tired spells and my recovery is entirely due to Foley's Kidney Pills, which I had recommended."

Two Families Suffer Heavy Loss In Fire In The East End

Fire, thought to have been caused by rats or mice gnawing through wires, caused $30,000 damage to the Joseph Steinhilber, double frame, twelve room dwelling at 2015-2017 Fifth street, and occupied by Gilbert Kammer and J. A. Raikie, who lost heavily in furniture, Sunday morning about ten o'clock, the fire gaining such rapid headway that the house was completely gutted. Kammer lost all of his household effects and clothing, saving only what the family had on at the time of the fire. He places his loss at $2,000 without insurance. Raikie lost all furniture in three bedrooms upstairs and places his loss at $500 without insurance. Mr. Steinhilber has some insurance on the house but he stands to lose considerable as the house was just completely renovated inside and out.

Mrs. Kammer was in the front room of her part of the house when her attention was attracted to the middle room by smoke. She hastened to the room and opened a clothes press door. Flames shooting out in her face. She told her young son to tell Mrs. Raikie in the next apartment of the fire and the child attempted to carry out his mother's instructions but was so excited Mrs. Raikie could not make out what he was trying to say.

When Mrs. Kammer opened the press door and the fire was given the necessary air to cause it to spread rapidly. Mr. Raikie attracted by the screams of Mrs. Kammer, secured a wrench to turn off the gas at the meters but before he could accomplish this the flames were coming through the front room window and on the Kammer side of the house. Neighbors assisted Mr. Raikie in removing his household effects from his three rooms on the first floor but the fire burned so rapidly toward the roof that it was impossible to get the furniture out of the upstairs side of the Raikie home.

The firemen of the East End and Hilltop companies responded to the alarm and they were soon on the scene with three streams of water. The flames had found their way to the attic by the time the firemen arrived and they had some difficulty in extinguishing the flames which were coming out the front and rear parts of the Kammer flat upstairs and down through the roof. The fire broke through into the kitchen of the Raikie flat and into the bedroom upstairs through the ceiling. Blinds and curtains in the upper front room of the Raikie flat were burned away but the wallpaper on door on the Kammer side of the house. Neighbors assisted Mr. Raikie in removing his household effects from his three rooms on the first floor but the fire burned so rapidly toward the roof that it was impossible to get the furniture out of the upstairs side of the Raikie home.

The flames had found their way to the attic by the time the firemen arrived and they had some difficulty in extinguishing the flames which were coming out the front and rear parts of the Kammer flat upstairs

The Kammer family has had more than its share of trouble this past year. About a year ago Kammer while working at the N. & W. shops fell and broke his leg. Several weeks later a young son fell and broke a leg and within a few weeks Mrs. Kammer fell downstairs and broke an arm. Mr. Kammer is now working at The Washington hotel soft drink parlor. A collection was taken at the First Christian church Sunday night for Kammer and close to $100 was received.

The Kammer family has found a home with relatives in the East End while Mr. and Mrs. Raikie and their seven children are busy looking for a home. Mr. Raikie who was employed at the N. & W. shops has been out of work several months.

Trachoma Clinic Tuesday

A Trachoma clinic, to operate on those afflicted with Trachoma that dread disease that causes blindness, will be held Tuesday morning, May 10, at 8:00 o'clock, new time (7:00 a. m. old time), at the Free Dispensary, 251 Gay street, under the auspices of the Bureau of Community Service, and the local Red Cross.

Portsmouth is fortunate to have such a man as Dr. John McMiller, of the U. S. Public Health Service, in charge of the clinic. He will be assisted by Miss Madden, of the State Trachoma Service.

During the past month, Dr. Tate and Miss Madden made a thorough survey of the Trachoma situation in the city and county. They went through the schools, examining the eyes of all the children. 384 children were examined, thirty-two cases were discovered in the city and forty-five in the county. While this is a large and dangerous number, when one considers how contagious Trachoma is, as compared with the situation a year ago, the number affixed, 77, being less than one per cent of the total.

But this one per cent must be cured.

Derivation of April.

Authorities on derivation of words state that the word April, the name of our fourth month, was derived from the Latin verb, "aperire," I open, and that the month was so named because it is the time when the buds of trees and flowers open. "If this were the case, it would make April singular among the months, for the names of none of the rest, as designated in Latin, have any reference to natural conditions or circumstances."

INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE OPENS TONIGHT AT 6 BELLS

Solvay Vs. Steel Plant,
Everything In Readiness
For The Grand Blow Off

It's hot off to the weatherman. A finer brand could not have been secured that is down on the bill of fare for landing this Monday evening, for the opening of the 1921 season of the Industrial Baseball League, which will open at the Seventeenth street yards at 6 bells tonight, when the Steel Plant will clash with the Solvay, champions of 1920.

Everything points to a tremendous crowd at this evening's game and fans who desire a seat of vantage are hereby advised that it will pay them to be there on time. Everything is in readiness. The grounds are in fine shape—the grand stand has been reconstructed and cleaned, while those who desire to witness the game from the inside lines will more than appreciate the arrangement along the right field foul line. A new back stop has been erected, while the score board in the right field has been moved outside the fair ground, but in good view at that.

The Steel Plant and Solvay players are anxious to get at each other. These two teams furnished some great hits last year, and are regarded as such by the fan populace. There will be quite a lot of new faces in both line ups and it is said the teams are evenly matched.

Those who have seen these two teams in action know there will be a struggle well worth seeing. Umpire Buck Yeager, with his assistant, John Weinberg, will handle the game from the viewpoint of arbiters and needless to add they will give their decisions in an impartial manner.

One word about season tickets: If you haven't secured yours, be in a position to buy one at the grounds this evening. President Dan W. Conroy will have several ticket sellers on the grounds and they have been there properly coached in the art of salesmanship. Come out with your dollar for a season ticket will start promptly at 6 o'clock. Be there so you will not miss a single solitary play.

WIN AND LOSE

The North Moreland Stars beat the Lincoln street team of this city yesterday, 3 to 2, the game being played on the Industrial League grounds.

In the afternoon the Stars lost to the White Sox of Wheelersburg, 9 to 7.

The Buckeyes journeyed to Otway Sunday and defeated the village team there by the score of 8 to 6. Score by innings:

Buckeyes	223 456 789

Roush Is Ill

Eddie Roush, star outfielder of the Reds is battling with a severe attack of sore throat. It kept him out of Saturday's game.

GETS HOME RUN

The St. Louis Cards woke up yesterday and beat Chicago, 9 to 6. McHenry kept up his slugging and potted a home run.

Kenova Beaten

The Russell, Ky., team yesterday beat the fast traveling Kenova team, 12 to 5. The game was witnessed by a large crowd in Kenova.

HITTING .326

Outfielder McHenry is hitting at a good clip for the St. Louis Cards, his latest batting average being .326. Dillhoefer of the same team is hitting less than .200.

PRACTICE GAME

Tonight on the York Park diamond the Ohio State Life Insurance Company's nine will play a practice game with the Merchants' Team in the Municipal League, which opens next Monday. Each team will practice two nights this week with two teams on the diamond each week.

Play Here Sunday

Portsmouth is making big preparation to hand the locals an awful drubbing when the two teams battle at Millbrook next Sunday. Manager Will Goldstein sends word that he will have the strongest lineup on the field he has put there this season.

FANNED TEN

The River City team defeated the Rosemount Stars, 12 to 8 yesterday on the latter's grounds. Much for the River City was in great form and struck out ten batters.

Shultz's Stars Defeated Cincinnati Strollers, 4-2

Before a fair sized crowd, Shultz's Stars triumphed over the Strollers of Cincinnati at Coney Island, Sunday afternoon in one of the most exciting games of this or any other season. The score was 4 to 2 and the game was thoroughly enjoyed by the large crowd present. There was never a time that either team had a clutch and both clubs played up to the hilt at all stages, the locals winning in the closing innings because they had the necessary punch to deliver the timely blow.

Mr. Prebus, a new comer in these parts and a mountain of muscle, brain and brawn, pitched for the Stars and he did a mighty good job of it once he got under way. He was a little wild in the early innings and he looked rather dark and foreboding for the Stars. But once the newcomer got going, he was all to the merrily and came through in fine shape. He was selected in the last inning by Mr. Townsend, who soon disposed of the enemy and the Stars had rung up their second win of the season.

W. Borg, an all around player and one who is quite a cog in the Strollers' machine, was on the mound for the visitors and he pitched a fine game. He, too, was a little wild but he made up for this via the strike out route, fanning no less than nine of the stars. When a pitcher can fool such a reliable batter as Mr. Potts, three times in succession he must of necessity have something worth while. He is some hither, too, as one can glean from a glance at the box score. He secured a single and a double, batting fifth in the line up, something unusual for a pitcher.

The visitors put up a sturdy defense fielding right up to the hilt. Despite the two errors they spilled along the way, the locals were not so clean in their fielding, but they tightened up at critical moments and saved their bacon on more than one occasion. The hitting of Cooper, Blake and Prebus featured, while Cooper and Blake did some nice work on the base paths.

All in all the game was all that could be desired, and the fine crowd present demonstrated the fact that the fans appreciate the efforts of Manager Shultz to give them high class baseball.

On next Sunday the champions of Camp Sherman will be the attraction at Coney Island. Arrangements are being perfected to have the American Legion present, and to show the visitors the time of their lives. The score:

THE SOUNDEST PHILOSOPHY

HERE isn't any principal country in Europe that hasn't any better roads than have the United States.

The United States spends more for road construction than all the principal countries in Europe.

Then why hasn't America the better roads, especially when it constructs them out of the best and most permanent material? The answer and the explanation are so very simple.

Whenever Europe spends a dollar for a new road it puts aside fifty cents for upkeep.

America expends millions for roads and it doesn't lay aside a cent for repairs.

We go out here in Scioto county and invest hundreds of thousands of dollars laying down magnificent highways. There is a fiction that when we do this the state will keep them in repair.

Not does it?

But that anyone knows, not at least with the promptness that the repairing system, if it is to produce the best results, calls for. Repairing to be effective should be done at once, in fact should be continuous. For no where does the law, a stitch in time saves nine, neglected apply so aptly, so inexorably and disastrously as in the maintenance of roads. Yet what do we see, repairs constantly and continuously put off and neglected. A spring breaks forth under a hill side road. Is an outlet made for it at once, and the road bed supported? No, it seeps and spreads until winter, when it freezes, still unattended when spring comes, it melts and bursts its way out, tearing a large section of brick with it and there, the havoc it wrought, remains unattended until, autoists have hurled enough objections over it to keep hedges ablazing for a thousand years.

It is just the same way with each division, nation, state and county; they heed not at all the supreme matter of insistent and persistent repair, not when the weather gets suitable, not next week, but today, this hour.

Per example: There are a couple of nasty depressions on a newly constructed culvert, about six miles from town, that have been there for three weeks. They have cost hundreds of dollars in wrenching and wear of cars, and unreckonable discomfort. Yet, it would take ten minutes to fill them up, the necessary gravel is lying within a foot of the depressions.

Aye, Europe's road philosophy is the soundest. It isn't all in the building, the chief thing is maintaining after once builded.

ONE POINT OF VANTAGE

OFTEN, though not quite so frequently as of yore, one hears that Europe has a better way of doing this and that, but there is one point at which America stands incomparably superior and that part is in the matter of an administration's contemptuous disregard of what the other side thinks.

Here is the German government resigning because it made an impossible appeal to President Harding, to find it rejected, as a matter of course.

Any half informed person knew before the proposal was put before him, that the President would have to turn it aside. Why, they must have all thought so in Berlin because they perpetrated the unpardonable diplomatic offense there of publishing the terms of the proposal before they could reach Washington. Still when an adverse reply came the whole cabinet threw up its job. It's stupid. However, if it were not the rule in European administrations to do just this same thing, it would come with no surprise from Berlin. Ever since its formation the alleged German republic has shown a distinct incapacity to grasp the situation as it is. Obsessed with the unalterable obsession that Germany could do no wrong and therefore its part in the war was right, it has "monkey-ed" with the other nations on the assumption that they could either admit their own error or else were so dense they could take no offense and tolerate forever.

She is apparently unable to grasp that whether she was right or wrong is no longer important. The supreme fact is that she was defeated, her enemies have the temper to impose the penalty and, what is more important, they have the power to enforce it. No one finds fault with her reluctance to pay, it but that her enemies and the whole world besides is utterly losing patience with the miserable manner in which she hesitates and palters.

So the ridiculous farce of her cabinet resigning under the circumstances, does get her anywhere else than to harsher general judgment and more inflexibility on the part of those whose special mission it is to fix the penalties. That's where the American way shows better. It holds on and hopes for a more favorable day.

Well, did you ever. The country is quite officially told that President Harding is beginning to show considerable air of wear and worry. Because of an inundation of job hunters; no, but because of a too common disposition shown by congress to trench upon executive prerogatives. And the same which shows we are all cast in a common mold.

Score one for the women. Fifty of them called upon the mayor of St. Louis and demanded that he stop booze selling and gambling. But they didn't stop there. They gave him actual facts and pointed to where the evidence of the alleged offenses could be secured. In other words they knew what they were complaining about and had "the goods" to show for it.

There is a future for the tailor who designs a hip pocket that does not bulge.

There never has been any monopoly on acting foolishly in business or in love.

Most persons would rather see a tramp wielding a pick than trying to work on their emotions.

Return Of The Hobo

By Frederic J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 9.—After disappearing almost completely for several years, the hobo is back again. Reports from all over the country show that the army of men which moves across the country as the unhired guests of the railroads and the public is once more mobilizing. Again is heard the request at the back door for a hand-out. The water tank has again become the waiting room for these non-paying passengers, and its strange collection of rabid writings, which are of so much value to the wandering fraternity, is being renewed. Theft of freight is again amounting to an enormous figure, jails and workhouses are filling up, petty offenses are on the increase.

Popular opinion in this country has always held the tramp to be a man who would not work under any circumstances. This theory was dealt a blow by the fact that during the war the army and industry seems to have absorbed nearly all of the tramps, and that they have reappeared only with the return of hard times. The tramp then, must be a man who will and can work if the inducements are strong enough, but who prefers a wandering life when employment is hard to get or unremunerative.

The tramp is a large and significant problem which has had very little study. The size of it you can realize when you are told that several different estimates made by officials of railroads placed the number of tramps in this country before the war at half a million. This estimate is based on the number of vagrants who are killed every year stealing rides on the railroads. More vagrants are killed this way in a normal year than trainmen and passengers put together. In one year it was estimated that these vagrants cost the railroads $15,500,000. This included what was paid for protection from them, and the thefts of freight which were attributed to them. For tramps often get food as well as transportation from the railroads. They break into shipments of food-stuffs and take what they can eat or carry away, often making it impossible for the railroads to deliver a case of canned goods, for instance, although perhaps only a few cans have been stolen.

Varieties of Vagrants
The estimate of half a million which the railroads place upon the normal tramp army of America does not of course include only tramps properly so-called. It includes all those who steal rides on the railroads. Among these is a small number of men who are ordinarily workers, but are temporarily out of funds and ride the break beams of the train because of a set to some new job. One young man, for example, who was a native of a far western state and worked his way through college, employed this method of crossing the continent four times a year.

Such cases are few. Besides the true tramps, the greater number of these vagrants belong to the class of seasonal workers. The tramps and the seasonal workers are of close kin. Many a man drifts into tramping by way of seasonal work, and the tramp may occasionally become a seasonal worker.

The seasonal workers are a large and well defined class. They make their living at such work as cutting ice and felling timber in the winter and working on lake boats and in the harvest fields in the summer. When not employed these men congregate in large cities, such as Chicago, where there are great numbers of cheap lodging houses that cater to them. They soon learn to live for a year on the earnings of a few months, and will not take all-time employment if they can get it unless actually starving. A man who is used to making a living out of the harvest fields in the summer has been known to refuse work at ice-cutting in the winter on the ground that he did not need the money and would be merely taking bread out of the mouth of some habitual winter worker.

The lives of these men lack all comfort and stability. They have change, adventure and leisure. Hence it is comprehensible that men of a certain type come to prefer it. Freedom and wandering are the things that we all dream of, and the man for whom the alternative is 10 hours a day at some monotonous mechanical task cannot perhaps be altogether blamed if he prefers a life in which labor and leisure alternate and there is change of scene and occupation.

Unfortunately society makes no allowance for men of that temper. The seasonal worker out of work is regarded as a vagrant. He is limited by the police and fined by charity. He and his pocketful of savings are the proper prey of all kinds of vice and fraud. No place is open to him but the lodging houses, which are dirty and comfortless places, breeders of the drug habit and of other habits which unfit men for normal social relations. Hence the seasonal worker generally deteriorates into a confirmed tramp, beggar, or thief.

A Study of Tramps
There has been much romance written about tramps, and also several honest realistic books. The best of these are by Jack London and Josiahelyn, both of whom tramped with the tramps. These books bring vividly home to one the social waste and deterioration that go with vagrancy, but also the lure of freedom and adventure which leads men into it.

When it comes to scientific study of vagrancy, remarkably little has been done, considering what a large fraction of the nation's labor supply it absorbs. Perhaps the best thing that can be found in this line is a study of one thousand homeless men made by Mrs. Alice Willard Southerger for the Russell Sage Foundation. She studied carefully a thousand men who applied for aid to a certain organization in Chicago. She found that of this thousand only 220 could be properly classed as tramps—that is, men who wandered for the sake of wandering.

The distinguishing thing about the tramp, she found, was that he had an overpowering nomadic impulse. He is almost invariably a man who craves wandering as some others crave alcohol. In some the craving was inborn and kept them always on the go. In others it was periodic. Some men deserted their families regularly at intervals of years, wandered for a while, and then returned and settled down as usual. In yet other cases, the men had controlled the impulse to wander until some misfortune overtook them. Usually this was either the death of a wife, which broke up the home, or a failure in business or the loss of a sum of money. Such men usually deteriorated rapidly on drink and drugs, feeling that they had lost their proper places in society.

The continuous wanderer, on the other hand, is often a man who enjoys his way of life and keeps his self-respect. Tramps of this class come from all grades of society, and include a considerable proportion of college men. Many of them have ways of making money along the road. Some of them are very accomplished beggars. Many of these inveterate wanderers are intelligent men who differ from others chiefly in that they cannot endure the routine of a settled life and must wander. Explorers, professional globe trotters, literary and journalistic vagabonds, are of the same type, but have had the good fortune to find a way of making a living that is congenial to them, and approved by society.

It is said that crime is the consequence of society. That is, every crime points to some imperfection in our social organization. The feeble-minded murderer would not have killed if he had been properly settled in the public schools and educated.

Neither would the seasonal worker and the hobo be a menace, perhaps, if their cases were intelligently studied. The seasonal worker is a necessity. Crops could not be gathered, nor boats manned, nor be harvested without this army of floating labor. But society makes no proper provision for this man who is necessary to it. His numbers could easily be ascertained, his movements directed. Government could see to it that his living and working conditions were decent, as it does in the case of settled factory workers. As it is, when he works he is provided with the most degrading sort of surroundings, for the most part. The typical lumber camp, with its vermin and dirt, is an example. When he has finished his work in one place and starts for another, he becomes a hunted animal. The police keep him moving, give him 12 hours to leave town. The tramping throw him out when he tries to execute the order. Only the tramp lodging house opens its doors to him, trusts him and welcomes him. So he is hampered down into the ranks of the confirmed vagrant and criminal.

Find Many Uses for Borax
Borax as a solvent for shellac finds extensive application in the hat trade. In tanning, both borax and boracic acid are used for cleaning the hides and dressing the leather. In the textile industry borax assists in dyeing, and in some parts of the world boracic acid is still employed in the preservation of foods. It is permitted in the salting of fish because such foods are soaked in water before cooking and most of the boracic acid is employed for external washes and it finds a place in cosmetics. It is used as a larvicide where it is recommended for the destruction of its larvae in manures for it destroys the larvae without affecting the bacteria which increases the fertilizer value of the manure. Finally, borax is a well-known flux used in metal working.

New-York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, May 9.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Up bedones and to the Waldorf to see the editors, gathered here. Then, home and worked a little, but in a pet at the posture of my affairs and decided to loaf through the day and frolic.

And happily J. Dudley sent word to join him and we would paint our faces like the mime and ride on an elephant in a circus parade for charity, which we did, but felt very foolish.

By and by Dexter Fellowes, the circus man, had us to lunch and Zip, the Whatist, was there, as were the fat lady and the very thin fellow and others from the side show and I ate but a mouthful.

Afraid through the town and by great chance met my wife, poor wretch, with three of the fairest ladies I have seen in many a day and all away to Schraff's where we had cake with layers of ice cream covered with a sauce of chocolate.

In the evening came H. Hobart, the picture play man, and S. Gibson and to see S. S's chambers where a tawny complexioned lady from Tahiti came and told us of far-away places and I received a comique piece of my own making about Danny Dammor who traveled from Dubuque to Des Moines.

All very merry and so to bed, my poor head aching all the night long.

Two comedians who have joined forces for the presentation of a musical show attended a rehearsal the other afternoon. The chorus was lining up for a number. One member on the end was rather stout and had seen more summers than is usual with the average Broadway corymb.

"Where in the world did she come from?" asked one comedian.

"She's a newspaperman's friend," was the reply.

"Whose?" Horace Greely's?"

Drab and grimy Grand street is preparing for the hot days that sap its energy. The building is ready to remove to the sidewalk where a large number of the residents try to sleep through the torrid nights. The little cellar ice shops are opened up for the season. In the winter they dispense coal by the lump or basket. The only bits of color are the bright splashes of oranges and apples on the pushcarts. It is a touch of the Old World.

Most of the people are newly arrived foreigners. And few, indeed, have journeyed north of Fourteenth Street. At night they read, mostly philosophy—Kant, Spinoza, Descartes, James and Hail.

The well dressed man is stubborn about changing fashions. Each year the tailors and cutters meet and decide on new sartorial goss-gaws but a stroll on Fifth Avenue shows that the smartest dressers are wearing the same styles of last year. Men's clothes are simple, the trousers have a roll and the padded shoulder that was heralded for a revival failed to revive. Brown and tan materials are the leaders. The silk shirt lingers, but is slowly losing its popularity.

Carol McComas, whose most notable success was achieved this year in Miss Lulu Bett, broke into all the front pages last week because a fortune was willing to her by a man from Pittsburgh to whom she was once betrothed. Interesting news, indeed, but far more interesting is Miss McComas' career. She is a valued friend of the writer and one of the few who gives the lie to the public's estimation of stage folk. She is never seen in public places. Her home life is spent among the flowers and trees of a pretty country estate. No press agents race to newspaper slugs with her pictures.

What's become of all the standard cage women we used to see? Tell Binkley is considerin' a pair of new shoes.

Q. Kindly inform me as to the mounting of a Congressman-at-Large, F. N. C.

A. After each census, Congress decides upon the basis of apportionment of representatives to inhabitants. The various State Legislatures make their own apportionments as to districts, being allowed to have the states entirely divided, or to have one or more Representatives-at-Large.

Q. When was the first medical journal published in this country? R. R. K.

A. The first real American medical journal was the "Medical Repository" which appeared in 1797 and was discontinued in 1824. In 1790 a journal of the Practice of Medicine and Surgery and Pharmacy in the Military Hospitals in France, but this consisted entirely of translations from the French journals of military medicine.

Varying Views of Marriage.
The definition of marriage has particularly appealed to humorists. Pett-Senn has summed it up thus: "Marriage is a port in the storm, but more often a storm in the port"; while Edmond About uses another and more violent metaphor. Says this gentleman: "Marriage is in life like a duel in the midst of battle." Beau-marchais, on the other hand, is milder, but equally as cynical. He remarks that "of all serious things marriage is the most ludicrous." Balzac, who really never married, but who had much to say on the subject, puts it in this terse manner: "Marriage is a fight to the death." La Rochefoucauld, the greatest of the French epigrammatists, compromises with the extremists and remarks: "There are good marriages, but there are no delicious ones." How different is this cynical viewpoint to the poetical observation of Sulpice Guillaume Gavarni, who says: "When a man says he has a wife, it means that a wife has him."

WHO'S WHO

In The Days News

BISHOP MICHAEL FAULHABER
Germany has a new cardinal in the person of the Most Rev. Michael Faulhaber, archbishop of Munich, to whom the honor was voted at the recent consistory in Rome. He is one of the best known and most beloved of the prelates within the German realm.

His station here for years been in Bavaria where he has been the leading figure in the affairs of the church, but his influence has extended over a field far beyond his immediate jurisdiction, and his promotion to the cardinalate is gratifying to all his countrymen.

As archbishop he was charged for years with the most delicate missions for the church. It was through him that the authorities in Rome communicated with the German leaders during the war. If the pope's appeals for peace could have had effective hearing above the din of strife the active agent in inducing Germany to heed them would have been the archbishop of Munich. Probably his work in that direction was not as futile as it seemed at the time, for it was undoubtedly amid complications that involved all of the belligerent nations, and his influence could not reach beyond the boundaries of his own land. When the full story shall be ready of the efforts of the church at various stages during the war to adjust the differences of the nations and purify them the name of the archbishop of Munich may be expected to loom large in the overtures to Germany.

While actuated by a supreme desire for peace and by full loyalty to Rome and co-operation with the churchmen of his own faith in other lands in seeking means for international reconciliation, there was never an instant of doubt of the archbishop's unqualified allegiance to the Fatherland. Thus he had the complete trust and respect of the German political and military leaders, even when he approached them with plans contrary to their own. In token of this confidence in him he received by imperial command the decoration of the Iron Cross, and throughout the war he wore that emblem as proudly as he did his sacerdotal robes, and is still worn by him on public occasions.
